

Have you participated in HPAC in a previous cycle?

No

Yes

You are a First-Time HPAC Applicant. You will interview with the Assistant Dean of Health Professions or Senior Academic Counselor and a faculty advisor and can receive an HPAC letter when you apply to health professional school.

It was during the 2022-23 academic year

It was during the 2021-2022 academic year or earlier

You interviewed with the Assistant Dean of Health Professions and faculty advisor, but you did not end up going through the health professional school application process and an HPAC letter was not written or uploaded to health professional school application services

An HPAC letter was written and uploaded to health professional school application services

You are a Secondary HPAC applicant. You can receive an HPAC letter, as long as you still meet eligibility requirements – please reach out to HealthCareers@unt.edu in January 2024 to let us know of your plans to apply to health professional school in Summer 2024 and we will provide further instructions. You will need to complete a survey and submit other information, but in the meantime, we recommend you begin reaching out to your individual letter writers to request that they update your letters or obtain new 2024 letter(s).

You are an HPAC Re-applicant. You can receive an addendum to your original HPAC letter – please reach out to HealthCareers@unt.edu in January 2024 to let us know of your plans to apply to health professional schools in Summer 2024 and we will provide further instructions. You will need to complete a survey and submit other information, but in the meantime, we recommend you begin reaching out to your individual letter writers to request that they update your letters or obtain new 2024 letter(s).

You are an HPAC Re-applicant. You can receive an addendum to your original HPAC letter but we require that you re-interview with the Assistant Dean of Health Professions or Senior Counselor so we can include new information in the addendum. In order to begin this process, please reach out to HealthCareers@unt.edu in January 2024 to let us know of your plans to apply to health professional schools in Summer 2024 and we will provide further instruction. You will need to complete a survey and submit other information, but in the meantime, we recommend you begin reaching out to your individual letter writers to request that they update your letters or obtain new 2024 letter(s).